Public Commissions

As part of the Art Basel Awards, two major new public commissions by last year's winners will be unveiled during the fair, extending Art Basel beyond the halls and into the city of Basel itself.

On Messeplatz, Nairy Baghramian presents Modèle vivant (S'empilant), a site-responsive installation conceived for the square's fountain. Composed of large-scale sculptural groupings that appear stacked or precariously balanced, the work reconsiders the relationship between sculpture, architecture, and the body.

On Münsterplatz, Ibrahim Mahama unveils The God of Small Things, an immersive installation formed as a constellation of suspended elements. Using rubber residues sourced from a post-independence-era factory in Ghana, the work transforms the historic square into a site of material and political reflection.

Parcours Sector Map

Parcours

Curated for the third time by Stefanie Hessler, Director of Swiss Institute (SI) in New York, Art Basel's public art sector unfolds along Clarastrasse, connecting the fairground with the Rhine with one installation on view across the river near Bankverein.

Under the guiding principle of 'Conviviality,' Parcours 2026 presents ambitious projects that explore how we live together. The artists embrace both the beauty and complexity, moments of connection as well as the ruptures that shape shared life. Across the selection, several thematic threads emerge: The artists examine rituals, myths, and beliefs; interspecies dependencies and ecological awareness; and architectures of public space as well as their ideological underpinnings. They explore choreographies, rhythms, and movements – both individual and collective – as well as diasporic memory, intergenerational transmission, and cultural translation. They articulate political resistance and dissent; discuss labor and attached value systems; and experiment with digital realities and technological co-authorship.

Over 20 largely new and site-responsive projects, Parcours presents an international, intergenerational prism of contemporary life.
